

Marija TOSIC

Serbian broadcasting corporation
Radio television of Serbia

Education in the field of journalism, mass media, communication, and public relations, with special interests in digital media and new approaches to disseminating information.

Bachelor's degree: Faculty of Contemporary Arts, Department of journalism and media management / Belgrade

Master's degree: Faculty of political science, Department of communication / Belgrade

Current position: Editor, Journalist and TV presenter at Education/Science program of Radio Television of Serbia.

Marija Tošić is in charge of designing, writing and realization of informative and documentary TV and web content. She is the author of many TV shows that represent various topics, facets, and experts from different fields of science and education. For many years, she has been interviewing many scientists and experts from her country and the world, who have contributed to the development of various innovations. Specifically, she has been researching and presenting stories in the field of industrial engineering, artificial intelligence, cyber security and new technologies, industrial design, biomedical engineering, molecular biology, astronomy, and astrophysics.