

Mariana CARMO

My name is Mariana, I am 35 years old and I work since February as a Communications Officer at the Carnegie Mellon Portugal Program (CMU Portugal), an international partnership between Portuguese Universities and the Carnegie Mellon University in the United States based in Lisbon.

I am currently responsible for the CMU Portugal Program communication activities, ranging from media relations to internal communication and events management.

Before that, I started my professional path as a journalist and then worked in PR agencies.

I have completed a master's degree in Public Relations Management and a Bachelor Degree in Communication, both in Lisbon where I've always lived.