

Contribution ID: 17

Type: Oral

Bayesian approach to accelerator control

Tuesday, 2 October 2012 12:30 (30 minutes)

The efficient use of accelerators requires highly optimized control and automation systems under the supervision of the human operator. The decisions that the operator makes in the brain are based on plausible reasoning which is intrinsically Bayesian probability inference. A short introduction to inference under uncertain circumstances, together with potential applications in accelerator control are discussed.

Primary author: Dr TIKKANEN, Pertti (University of Helsinki)

Presenter: Dr TIKKANEN, Pertti (University of Helsinki)

Session Classification: Laboratory Report 4