

LNGS SEMINAR SERIES

Savely Karshenboim

*Max-Planck Institut of Quantum Optics
Garching, Germany*

Problem in determination of the proton charge radius

Proton charge radius is an important physical parameter. It can be determined by means of spectroscopy of ordinary or muonic hydrogen and also with help of electron-proton scattering. Recently new results were obtained from muonic hydrogen and the scattering. Unfortunately, the results are not consistent. I will review the results and the data.

NOVEMBER 7, 2013 – 2:30 PM
LNGS - " B. PONTECORVO" ROOM