

Contribution ID: 189

Type: Oral

Crystal Channeling as Diagnostics for Low Emittance Beam from Plasma Injection

A method of plasma injection acceleration produces a witness bunch with extremely low emittance. We propose to use crystal channeling to distinguish the low-emittance witness bunch from the drive bunch. From the fraction of channelled particles we can measure the emittance of the witness bunch.

Primary authors: HOGAN, Mark (SLAC National Accelerator Laboratory); Dr LI, Siqi (SLAC); Dr YAKIMENKO, Vitaly (SLAC)